CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO HEAR OF ALLAGASH

The Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular December meeting on Tuesday, December 3, with a supper served by the Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Church, in the church dining room at 6:30.

The Chamber is fortunate to have as its speaker, Austin Wilkins, Maine State Forest Commissioner. His subject is the timely and controversial one of "The Allagash Watershed." He will talk about the possibilities and the several proposals for the use of this area.

He will have Joel Marsh to assist him in the showing of pictures, charts and the narration.

Where this region holds interest for many of our local citizens, the Chamber is making the program an open meeting to which the interested public is invited. The program will follow the supper for the Chamber members and will start at 7:30. The interested public is invited to the church at this time.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE.

The repairs were completed on the water line outside the storage tank at West Bethel last week. The pump could not maintain the proper pressure after the repairs were made last week so a new search began. A new leak was found on Monday night of this week and another was found on Tuesday morning of this week. The work is now underway to repair the two new sources of trouble. It is hoped that these two repair bills will be the last for awhile.

The cost of maintenance and repairs to the water system is about $476.00 so far this year. There is also the cost of these last two repairs plus the principal and interest payment of $882.50 to be added to the $476.00. The revenue for the water system is around $900.00 a year. The loan will be paid off in 17 years and the interest will decrease annually but a thorough study will have to be made of the system to determine whether or not the present rates are high enough to pay off the indebtedness and operate the system.

A lot of improvements have been made over at the airport the last few months. All of the improvements made before this week were donated by interested people. More work has been done this last week in the length and grade of the strip. The town equipment has worked about two days on the last part of the project. Any town money that is spent is usually matched by an equal amount from the state.

PRESIDENT OF U. S. NATION MOURNS LOSS OF PRESIDENT

President Lyndon B. Johnson who was sworn in as chief executive following the death of President Kennedy, Nov. 22.

CITIZENRY HONORS LATE PRESIDENT

Conceived by members of Mundt-Allen Post No. 81, American Legion, as a simple memorial service in its own quarters for a departed comrade and martyred President, the idea struck a resonant chord throughout the area within a few hours and it soon became evident that the largest assembly hall in Bethel would be needed to meet the public interest to pay final respects to our martyred President, John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Thus it developed that the clergy, citizenry and representatives of the military and veterans organizations, regardless of creed or political affiliation, filled to capacity the facilities of Bingham Hall, Gould Academy on Sunday, November 24.

From the moment the organ intoned its first strains to the fading of the last note one hour later, the atmosphere was one of reverence and dignity out of respect for the late President of the United States. The color guard, Wilfred Baker, Charles Merrill, Lewis Sargeant and Ernest Angevine under command of Roderick McMillin advanced the colors to the stage. Then after a pronounced setting forth

TRIBUTE TO PRESIDENT KENNEDY BY SEN. MANSFIELD

Following is the text of a tribute to the late President Kennedy by Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, at the Capitol rotunda, Sunday afternoon.

"There was a sound of laughter; in a moment, it was no more. And, so, she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands.

"There was a wit in a man neither young nor old; but a wit full of an old man's wisdom and of a child's wisdom, and, then, in a moment it was no more. And, so she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands.

"There was a man marked with the scars of his love of country, a body active with the surge of a life far, far from spent and, in a moment, it was no more. And so she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands.

"There was a father with a little boy, a little girl and a joy of each in the other. In a moment it was no more, and so she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands.

"There was a husband who asked much and gave much, and, out of the giving and the asking, wove with a woman what could not be broken in life, and, in a moment it was no more. And, so she took a ring from her finger and placed it in his hands, and kissed him and closed the lid of a coffin.

"A piece of each of us died at that moment. Yet, in death he gave of himself to us. He gave us of a good heart from which the laughter came. He gave us of a profound wit, from which a great leadership emerged. He gave us of a kindness and a strength fused into a human courage to seek peace without fear.

"He gave us of his love that we, too, in turn, might give. He gave that we might give of ourselves, what we might give to one another until there would be no room, no room at all, for the bigotry, the hatred, prejudice and the arrogance which converged in that moment of horror to strike him down.

"In leaving us—these gifts, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, President of the United States, leaves with us. Will we take them, Mr. President? Will we have, now, the sense and the responsibility and the courage to take them?"

Inadequate traction—or skidding—is one of the great dangers to motorists during the winter season, emphasized the State Police. To obtain the best possible traction on slippery, wet pavement, make sure you have tires with good treads. Many drivers feel safer with snow tires in the winter months. In weather with deep snow or glare ice, it will be advisable to use reinforced tire chains. Be prepared. Speed must be adjusted to fit existing conditions. Pull away from a stopped position gradually, and allow longer distances for bringing your car to a stop on slippery surfaces.

Winter roads can be slippery in spots, even when most of the highway is clear, warn the State Police. Watch for ice patches on bridges, in shaded areas, and on the inside of curves.

V. A. NEWS LETTER.

Dr. Weltman, Director of the Togus Veterans Administration Center, announces that the Togus Veterans Administration Research Laboratories have started a study to evaluate the most effective treatment for delirium tremens. Delirium tremens is a disease which can occur in individuals with a history of excessive alcohol intake over a long period of time. The progressive increase in the incidence of this disease has led to a greater interest in answering the question of the most effective treatment for this condition. As with many disease entities that have not been thoroughly researched, the most desirable treatment is often a matter of speculation. The Togus research laboratories, recognizing the need for definitive information about delirium tremens, have decided to conduct a two-year study of this disease. The treatment methods to be evaluated are all well known treatments that have been used with varying degrees of success by medical authorities. Our purpose is to systematically evaluate those various treatment methods in the hope that we will be able to identify the most desirable one.

The Veterans Administration Central Office in Washington has expressed keen interest in this study and the possible application of this research design to similar problems in other hospitals.

Dr. Weltman goes on to point out that this study is but one of many studies that are being conducted in the General Medical and Surgical, and Neuropsychiatric research laboratories. Other studies completed at Togus have been published in leading scientific journals and have done much to enhance the reputation of Togus as an outstanding research and treatment center.

Hospital personnel involved in this study are:

Israel Zeltzman, M. D., Chief of Staff — Chairman of Research and Education Committee; Robert L. Ohler, M. D., Chief, Medical Service, Associate Chief of Staff—Secretary of Research and Education Committee; Charles Rothstein, Ph. BOOKLET ON MAN-MADE MARSHES ISSUED

A 79-page booklet called "Man-Made Marshes for Maine Waterfowl" has just been published by the Maine Dept. of Inland Fisheries and Game. Written by Waterfowl Research Leader Howard E. Spencer, Jr., it is a report on an evaluation study of 84 marshes.

Commissioner Ronald T. Speers says in a foreword that the report is the Fish and Game Department's "most recent contribution toward better waterfowl management." The bulletin reviews the status of wetland habitat, takes a look at the future, and outlines a broad program for the continued wise management and use of the waterfowl resource.

This bulletin is the final report of the evaluation study, which was conducted under the Federal Aid to Wildlife Restoration program.

Copies may be ordered from the Game Division, Maine Dept. of Inland Fisheries and Game.

The Sixth Grade Girl Scouts met at the home of their leader Nov. 21. There were fifteen girls present.

We went right to work on our centerpieces. After we worked for awhile we had refreshments of coffee buns and drink.

We closed the meeting by playing a short game, we saluted the flag, and repeated the Girl Scout Promise.

There will be no Sixth Grade Girl Scouts this week because of the Thanksgiving holiday. —Danna E. Brown, Scribe.

HUNTING SAFETY DRIVE FOR THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS

Maine game wardens will be out in force over the Thanksgiving holidays again this year with the hope of curbing hunting accidents.

Fish and Game Commissioner Ronald T. Speers has directed Chief Warden Maynard F. Marsh to have the Warden Service pay particular attention to enforcement of safety regulations. They will be on the alert for violations which often contribute toward accidents and will also point out unsafe hunting practices that don't necessarily violate the law.

"Our wardens constantly watch for and try to correct situations that can result in accidents," Speers stated "and I hope this concentrated effort will prove worthwhile."

A similar intensified program, with the public notified of it, was carried out last year; one accident occurred on Thanksgiving Day and two each on the following two days of the long-week end. None of these accidents was fatal, but they could have been prevented.

Commissioner Speers urges hunters to use special care and try to improve on the 1962 safety record. The awareness of late-season anxiety to kill a deer, he states, should spur each hunter

HUNTING OR FISHING LICENSE GOOD CHRISTMAS GIFT

Maine hunting and fishing licenses expire Dec. 31 each year, and sportsmen are reminded to renew them before heading into the field in 1964.

Those licenses, the Maine Fish and Game Department suggests, might make a Christmas gift the sportsman will really appreciate. City and town clerks have the permits on sale at all times.

to take great pains to identify what looks like a deer.

Chief Warden Marsh noted that wardens are still finding groups of more than six hunters taking part in drives for deer. Six is the largest number that may lawfully participate in a drive. A sizeable proportion of shooting accidents occurs during drives; limiting the number of hunters in a safety factor.

MIRRORS SET UP TO PREVENT DEER-CAR COLLISIONS IN MAINE

The Maine Fish and Game Dept. has installed 100 special mirrors along a section of busy highway in an experiment to prevent collisions involving deer and automobiles. Most of these accidents occur at times when automobile headlights would be turned on.

The metal mirrors are intended to reflect the light beams into the woods near the road, confusing deer or moose long enough for the car to pass by while the animals are standing still, wondering what is going on.

This method was developed in Holland and is credited with preventing such incidents there.

Game Biologist W. Sidney Howe installed the test mirrors on a stretch of Route 2 between Newry and Bethel, where numerous collisions have occurred. The results of the project will be studied to learn its effectiveness in Maine.

Kenneth W. Hlodgdon, Game Division chief, says that mirrors for other test areas will be ordered soon. An attempt is being made to find a source of the mirrors in this country, to speed up delivery and economize on shipping costs.

NEW HOSPITAL WING DEDICATION DEC. 15

The modern $1,300,000 wing of the Rumford Community Hospital will be dedicated and opened for public inspection Sunday, December 15, at 1:30 p. m. Hospital administrator Herbert L. Burger says a committee representing the trustees, the auxiliary and others has formulated plans for a brief dedication ceremony to be followed by an afternoon-long open house. Guided tours will be conducted through the new three-story addition and light refreshments will be served.

Presiding at the dedication will be Rand N. Stowell, Dixfield, who served as chairman of the Memorial Gifts Committee in the 1961 hospital subscription campaign. Reverend Joseph Whitlock, curate of St. Athanasius Church will give the invocation. There will be remarks by Dr. Frederick T. Hill, vice president of Thayer Hospital, Waterville, and chairman for the Maine advisory council for Hill-Burton funds, and by Doctor Dean Fisher, Commissioner of the Maine Department of Health and Welfare. Oxford Paper Company President William H. Chishom will then speak briefly before cutting the ribbon officially opening the new wing, and the benediction will be offered by Reverend Lawrence D. Clark, Jr., pastor of the St. Barnabas Episcopal Church.

The new wing is of completely new design and the first of its kind to be built in Maine. Each of the three floors contain two parallel corridors rather than the usual one. Doctors' quarters, nurse stations, storage, service and support facilities occupy the area between corridors and patients' rooms and wards are arranged along the outside walls. Completely fireproof, the new addition will double the available floor space and increase total capacity from 66 to 100 beds. As a result of the new construction the hospital will have two x-ray rooms to which $50,000 worth of new equipment, including a portable x-ray machine, is being added. There will be two major operating rooms, an emergency operating room and one for minor surgery as well as $17,000 worth of new sterilizing equipment. Each floor will have an isolation room and a five-bed pediatric ward is being added. Patients' rooms will have Centron units for oxygen, lighting controls and an intercom system.

SEN. MUSKIE REPORTS

Hatred and violence reach a tragic climax in Dallas, Texas, last week. As I said upon learning of the President's death: "It is difficult to adjust to the shock of the news. It is impossible to comprehend the motives of one who would do this to his country. We have lost a great leader. I have lost a good friend. If I were to suggest what President Kennedy would say, if he were here, it would be: 'This is a time to pray for our country.' We must be restrained in our reactions; we must stand together—and, I repeat, pray for our country."

As Americans, we mourn the loss of a great President, cut down in his prime. As individuals, our hearts go out to the Kennedy family. In the space of a few short months, Mrs. Kennedy lost a son and a husband. May God grant her the physical and spiritual resources she must need to persevere in the face of this tragedy. May God care for her two children.

Deep as may be our grief, we must immediately reaffirm our faith in our system of government, designed to preserve continuity even in the face of such trying circumstances. Our Republic—although its head may now be bowed in shame that this could happen here—will survive. America will continue to grow and prosper. Freedom will be maintained. However disastrous, this one insane act cannot stem the tide of freedom. I am confident that Americans of all political persuasion will unite behind President Johnson to complete the unfinished business which President Kennedy so capably and so eloquently set before us.

We, in Maine, will long remember his moving plea for peace and understanding, expressed in his address at the University of Maine on October 19.

He was a man of dignity; yet he was humble. He was a man of great intellect; yet he spoke in simple terms. He was born to great wealth; yet his great concern was for the poor, the oppressed; John F. Kennedy's place in history is secure, but all mankind is immeasurably poorer without him.

GLINES APPOINTED MANAGER OF GOULD PROPERTIES

Roland Glines has been appointed by the Trustee Committee on Buildings and Grounds as manager of the physical properties of Gould. As manager of Buildings and Grounds, he will be responsible for the maintenance and improvement of buildings, grounds and other properties and will supervise all employees in the department.

Before entering the contracting business three years ago, Mr. Glines had been on the Gould maintenance staff for ten years as a carpenter and supervisor so he is familiar with the operation of the ever-expanding facilities.

With his return, Clayton Crockett will assume much responsibility for the mechanical, electrical and automotive equipment pursuing a regular schedule of inspection and maintenance.

Gould feels fortunate in having Mr. Glines direct a faithful group of men and women, many with years of service, in further development of this important operating department.

F. H. A. LOANS NOW FOR NEW WATER SUPPLIES

Farmers Home Administration loans are available for new water supplies for homes in rural areas and for farm use according to Elwyn R. Morrow, Oxford County Supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration. Morrow states that due to limited rainfall in the past few months, he has had a number of inquiries recently on the availability of loans for water supplies. These loan funds can be used for drilling wells, developing dug water supplies and for piping the water into the buildings.

The Farmers Home Administration office serving this area is located on the second floor, over the Town Offices, of the Masonic Building in South Paris.

Pictured here last week after work started on the cinder block walls (which are to be covered with a veneer of brick) of Bryant's Market's new IGA store are: Mrs. William Bryant, Mrs. Myron Bryant, Mrs. Richard Bryant, Richard Bryant and Gregory Bryant.

It is estimated that 5,000 blocks and 24,000 bricks will be used in the construction.
